DIAMOND THIEVES REMOVED FOR TRIAL

Men Who Are Alleged to Have Robbed
Minneapolis Store Taken There
For Trial.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 23.—James Moran and Jack Kline, alleged to be the men who broke a show window in the jewelry store of M. L. Cohen at Minneapolis, on September 21 last, and stole a tray containing $2,000 worth of diamonds, were arrested here yesterday and will be returned to Minneapolis for trial. The men have been positively identified by Mr. Cohen who saw them immediately after the robbery was committed.

The breaking of the show window and the escape of the men with their booty through a crowded street was one of the most daring crimes in the history of Minneapolis. The store at the time was filled with customers and the thoroughfare was lined with busy shoppers. Taking a large piece of iron, the two men stepped to the window, smashed the glass, and reaching in, seized a tray of diamonds and ran into a saloon next door. The breaking glass aroused the people in the vicinity and a large crowd started in pursuit. Revolver in hand the robbers held their pursuers at bay until they could slip out the back door of the saloon, and they completely made their escape almost under the eyes of dozens of policemen and hundreds of citizens.

A month later the men were picked up by the police here. A large scar received by one of them while reaching through the broken window proved their undoing. The scar was plainly visible and it caused the arrest of the men on suspicion, resulting in their identification and order of removal to Minneapolis for trial. None of the diamonds were found on the prisoners.

In each of the three trials of Oates a verdict of guilty has been returned by the jury and his punishment fixed at death. Each time the case has been reversed on technicalities.

today made large deposits in the local banks. He believes he will be able to cope with the situation.

Pittsburg, Oct. 23.—The stock exchange did not open this morning, the members deeming it advisable the exchange remain closed temporarily owing to the demoralized feeling in Westinghouse Electric.

State in Charge.
Acting State Supt. Skinner took possession of the Knickerbocker Trust Co. and its various branches this morning.

All Are Right.
Fifteen bank examiners sent out this morning to various parts of the city reported the condition of all the financial institutions except the Trust Company of America as normal.

Issue Statement.
President Hall of the stock exchange issued the following statement: "The secretary of the investment company finds itself involved. This will necessitate a temporary suspension or receivership of the Westinghouse Electric Co., the Westinghouse Machine Co. and the Lamp company."

Good Shape.
"The manufacturing companies are in absolutely solvent condition."

Tight Market.
The embarrassment of the concern is attributed to its inability to secure funds on account of the stringency in the money market. The amount involved will run up into the millions.

CIVIC FEDERATION HEARS ADDRESSES

Isaac N. Seligman of New York and
Frank Parsons of Boston Gave Addresses.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Oct. 23.—The second day of the convention of the National Civic Federation was devoted to the consideration of the corporation, its construction and regulation. Among the speakers were Isaac N. Seligman of New York and Prof. Frank Parsons.

Mr. Seligman of New York said in brief as follows:

"That there are evils or dangers connected with the trusts is undeniable, but the way to remedy them is to seek by appropriate legislation to cure the evils while maintaining the benefits. To seek to abolish trusts as such is visionary; to seek to cure some of the evils of trusts is perfectly reasonable. It is worthy of note that in no other country of the world is there any such statute as the Sherman law."

"It appears to me beyond any reasonable doubt that a national regulation of our corporations is desirable and even essential. It is desirable in the interests of the corporations themselves. It is difficult to conceive of the possibility of establishing any uniform intelligent regulation of corporations if every state is permitted to pass its own laws."

"With the ever growing magnitude of our modern commercial and industrial processes, the ineffectiveness of the central government would leave some states to attempt a regulation for which they are eminently unfitted, because of the interstate character of the operations. I firmly believe that the granting of a federal franchise or license to engage in interstate commerce would tend fully to protect such companies as remained within the law, and would defend them from harassment by forty-five separate legislatures."

"I have always advocated publicity in the conduct of affairs of trusts or combinations. Publicity appears to me to be one of the chief and permanent antidotes. There is no reason why the same policy which is already applied to savings banks and trust companies by the states and to national banks and railroad companies by the federal government should not be adopted. This would apply especially to the filing and publication of regular statements under fixed rules and at stated periods."

"National regulation ought to apply to all corporations of more than a certain size, doing interstate business. 'Individually, I have every confidence in the intention of the present administration to act fairly and reasonably toward corporations. There is in my opinion more danger to be feared from the ordinary tendencies of the various states than from the present national administration or any future national administration. While there is every reason to believe that under proper safeguards corporations will be more secure under an effective and reasonable national incorporation law, than at present under the laws of the various states.'"

Prof. Parsons said in part:

"Trusts and combinations are results of the action of the beneficent principles of union and co-ordination in industrial organization is almost as important as civic organization. Men united into tribes, states and nations, because combination gave them power for defense and civic action. And they have learned to unite into great industrial organizations because combination means economy and increase of industrial power."

"The principal remedies that have been proposed are: (1) Anti-trust legislation. (2) Federal license and incorporation with thorough supervision by national authorities and full publicity. (3) Graded taxation, putting a low rate on trusts and combines that open their books to public inspection, make low capitalization, reasonable prices, fair wages, etc.; and a high rate on combines that refuse to open their books to public inspection and oppose publicity, or are tainted with over-capitalization, excessive charges, etc."

"Men combine for profit. They combine now in anti-social forms because profit lies in that direction. Archaic law has not been able to break the connection between profit and anti-social methods and loss with anti-social forms of combination without attaching profit to forms of organization in harmony with public interest, and trusts and combines will naturally gravitate to these superior social forms. (4) Arbitration. We may require monopolies to act subject to boards of arbitration having power, on appeal, to fix selling prices, wages, etc. The protection which is afforded by competition being lost, when, for the sake of economy, competition gives way to monopoly, the protection of judicial decision should take its place. It is unfair for one party to a contract to have arbitrary power to fix the terms of the contract. It is unfair for the seller of things the people must buy, to have power to fix the prices of those things, and it is equally unfair for the public to fix the prices. The prices should be fixed, in case of dispute, by boards of arbitration representing all the parties in interest, labor, capital and the public. (5) Administration by public officers, permanently under public ownership, or temporarily under judgments for breach of law."

"The chief abuses referred to are over-capitalization, excessive charges based on monopoly power or unfair methods of crushing rival dealers, railroad rebates and favoritism, selling low in competitive districts while making high prices elsewhere, unjust treatment of labor, and political corruption or undue pressure on government or public authorities."

"When a corporation cannot pay its debt a receiver may be appointed by the court to conduct its business until it is on a sound basis. So it might be enacted that when a trust or combine is found guilty of violating the law, it could put in charge of a judicially appointed public officer who should use the profits to pay off excessive capitalization and reduce rates to a fair basis. And should ascertain and publish the values, costs and inside facts of the concern, and conduct the business under the law and the supervision of the court until it is put in every respect on a sound basis in harmony with the law and the public good."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 23.—Judge Bradley has handed down a decision sustaining the will of Julie Prochoc, by which the bulk of the property is left to a 12-year-old granddaughter, Georgia T. Lecker. Two sons of the deceased contested the will on the ground that the deceased was not of sound mind at the time it was executed. It happened, however, that the instrument was drawn and attested by Circuit Judge J. J. Pratt, an old friend of the family, and on the testimony of the circuit judge the county court sustained the validity of the will.

heard the magnates in their own den; has forced the public corporations that hawk their wares on this little street to listen to the word of the law. Today the wealth of the country does not lie in the rise and fall of stocks, but in the hard-earned product of the toilers. Failures of Wall Street firms, crashes of banks that deal in securities that are doubtful, only mean that we are coming to better understanding of the situation and that the days of inflated prices are soon to be over.

THE CIRCUS TRUST

This morning's dispatches announce the formation of a new trust. "This time it is the circus that has been combined into one vast corporation, which is controlled by five men, all sons of Wisconsin. With the control of the stock of the English share-holders of the Great Barnum & Bailey circus, the five Ringling Brothers have become trust magnates of the first water. The only people to suffer perhaps by the deal are the performers, who may be forced to sign contracts at figures fixed by the new owners of three of the greatest shows on earth or go out of the business entirely. The public will still have the circus, perhaps bigger, better, larger and more elaborate than ever.

GOOD ROAD MOVEMENT

The movement for good rural roads is steadily growing. While all the improvements made this past summer may not have been scientifically correct in theory, they are better than in the past. The farmers begin to realize that good roads mean easier work for their teams and access to the market at all times of the year for their crops. Good roads really spell prosperity and in communities where this is realized much work of a permanent kind is being done. Out in the town of Plymouth, near Hanover, one of the worst mud-holes in the country is being made into a hard, serviceable road under the direction of men who understand the value of such work. The state geological survey have loaned them the steam roller for finishing the work and the road is being built to stay and is not simply a pile of gravel dumped down to be washed away by the first freshet or become a hump in the middle of the traveled highway. It would pay the county to own a complete road-building outfit and under the new law which places the responsibility for the condition of the roads on the shoulders of the Highway Commissioner such machinery could be cared for and used intelligently. While it might look like a large sum of money to spend for such purposes it would ultimately pay for itself in good hard roads that do not need repaving after every rain.

The Taft boulevard is not by any means subsidizing. It is growing in magnitude day by day and if President Roosevelt does not mean to listen to the call of the people for a third term then Taft is the man to be talked about.

Persons who earned their necks yesterday to catch a possible sight of the balloons supposed to be sailing somewhere in the upper regions have the satisfaction that comes to those who know their neighbors were in no better luck.

It is time to consider the matter of a county fair if anything definite is to be done for a meeting in 1908. It is always best to take time by the forelock in these matters and not wait until the last minute to act.

The Milwaukee Free Press is just now listening to an interesting discussion as to why a retraction was not made which should have been made and if made would have prevented much trouble which is being made.

So the balloons have begun to come to earth and now the contest is between an American and a German for the prize for the longest journey through the air.

Hughes Has the Right Idea. (Chicago News.) Hughes is not carrying his beam or lifting men to put it. Nor would he give it storage room—but that's the way to get it.

View is Not Unprejudiced. Marinette Eagle-Star: The Chicago Inter Ocean accuses the President of preaching socialism. This brings a smile when it is known that the Inter Ocean is very close to the "special interests."

Two Recent Miracles. Boston Journal: Wonders never cease nowadays, anyhow. Marconi reports picking up a wireless telegraph message from the other side of the world, and the Post reports spending two miles by wireless telephone.

Oleo Falls in Crucial Test. Elkhorst Independent: The trouble with oleo is that it will pass inspection all right until it is put on top of a hot buckwheat cake. A hot buckwheat cake and oleo don't seem to hitch, but how the festive hot brown delight does take to our 40 cent butter!

Wisdom of Gladys. Exchange: Back to the simple life for Gladys, but not so very far back. What the lady member of the Vanderbilt family will wear when she lands her fortune to the count foots up to $67,000. Wise girl! It is well for her to spend the money now.

Solomon Inquiry Out of Order. Oakbrook Northwestern: Now that an alleged who has asserted that Solomon never wrote the song credited to him, some parliamentarian is liable to take to the point of order that the Shakespeare-Incon question is still before the house.

In a Queer Quandary. Chicago Record-Herald: A negro prophet predicts that on Nov. 25 an earthquake, fire or flood will devastate Norfolk, Va., destroying all bars, hypocrisies and backbiters. People who flee from Norfolk now will naturally cause themselves to be regarded with suspicion.

Monahan Full-Blown Lecturer. Madison Post: The Hon. James G. Monahan of Burlington has definitely entered the lecture field. He will from now on devote the larger part of each year to Chautauque and Lyceum platforms. Already he has engagements which will occupy a good part of the year. Mr. Monahan's friends who are familiar with his fine oratorical ability, his humor and kindly philosophy, will predict for him marked success in his new field.

Duluth's Amazing Tax Rate. La Crosse Leader-Press: Duluth has a tax rate this year of 365 mills, which seems amazing, but until one knows how the property is assessed it is difficult to tell whether the rate is high or not. If the property is returned at only one-third valuation, as is the case in many states, the rate would be only 12 mills on the actual value, which would be reasonable. But if the valuation is made on the full value of the property, the rate in Duluth is high enough to stagger development in that enterprising city.

Dr. Robinson a Bishop. Milwaukee Sentinel: While the elevation of the Rev. Dr. Henry D. Robinson, warden of the college for boys, to the work of the Episcopal church in Wisconsin, his selection by the house of bishops as one of three men to be honored with the purple as the result of the election of three new auxiliary bishops is a distinction of which the state and its churchmen especially have reason to be proud. Dr. Robinson has proved his value to the church. Under his direction, Racine college has grown from a struggling little school to an educational institution of recognized merit. In addition to his work at the head of the college, Dr. Robinson has been one of the leaders in the diocese and was a close personal friend and adviser of the late Bishop Nicholson.

Concrete Dwelling Houses. Evening Wisconsin: Thomas A. Edison is working upon from models for a model three-story dwelling house to be built of concrete. The models he expects will cost $30,000, but when he has them he can set them up any where, helped by hired workmen at $1.50 a day, who will also mix and pour in the concrete, and he expects to be able to construct commodious, fireproof houses for about $1000 apiece.

Six days will be allowed for setting and drying, after which the tenants may move in. There will be no need for fire insurance in houses of this kind, and landlords will not be in continual fear of their property being ruined by tenants.

Edison has succeeded in accomplishing most of the things to which he has set his hand. If he can realize his present project he will perform a double service to his countrymen, who not only need fire-proof houses but are anxious to check the destruction of the forests.

Loeb as a Life Maker. Detroit Free Press: The world-wide shock which followed the conclusions of Charles Darwin was based on the popular belief that Darwin held the ancestors of men to have been monkeys. How much greater ought the shock to be when Professor Loeb advances a good many reasons for supposing that man is the descendant of a small quantity of carbon, oxygen, hydrogen and nitrogen, seasoned with a dash of phosphorus and a pinch of salt? The consequences of the things toward which the mind of Dr. Loeb and his fellow biologists are tending are tremendous. The question of man's descent was of very great philosophic interest, but not greater than that of the origin of life, which the possibility of actually producing living things implies possibility of vast practical importance. But the world is being shocked by what scientific men think, largely because scientific men have driven the church, society and men in general out of their field and occupy it undisputed, and alone.

"Crises?" Yes? No? La Crosse Tribune: Carnegie says there will be a "financial crisis." Harriman says there will not. As it is all about money, these two men who have so much of it should be authority.

Carnegie has made his money, and has given lots of it away. He is a most out of it, and need not fear to tell the truth. Harriman is still seeking to make money, and might have a selfish interest in "booming" conditions.

Carnegie says there will be a "financial crisis," and that it may do good by discouraging wildcat plunging. We believe he is right, in a way. The crisis has already come to Helme. It has come to others who have provoked the wrath of Dame Fortune by the audacity of their financial "monkey-work." There will be a crisis for Harriman, if he continues to tempt the temper of the public by flouting the laws.

But there will be no "financial crisis" for those who how and harp and hum in the ordinary old honest ways.

Women and the Suffrage. Chicago Record-Herald: Miss Phoebe Cushman, somewhat melodramatic statement of her reasons for abandoning the women's suffrage cause, will hardly change the opinion of any of the leading advocates of that cause, but it may induce them to resort to equally exaggerated assertions on the opposite side. As against her indictment of women for their infirmities, the advocates of the cause will probably claim a transcendent fitness.

Miss Cushman used to believe that women were "timid, wholesome, progressive and proficient." Now she believes that they are "under the domination of priests and preachers," that "religious freedom and political purity" are outside their range entirely; that they have "not a particle of regard for vested rights," and would hence be "a menace to our republican form of government;" that they are certain to buy votes "with a smile and some silver;" that they lack "the needed nervous force;" that they cannot look at any question impersonally, and, finally, that "they were not designed by the Creator for the rough and tumble activity of political life."

This is a terrible indictment. With all due apology to Miss Cushman for so unqualified a retort, it is terrible rubbish. It is just as foolish as the opposition argument which goes on the theory that all women are angels, cross-haired against political fall. It is just as foolish as an argument which turns on the natural right of the women to the ballot.

The shooting occurred in the home of the woman and one of the dead men is her husband, while the other is the triple slayer who shot the woman and her husband after the woman had refused to leave the latter to elope with him, and then turned the weapon upon himself.

MILWAUKEE MAY BE CONVENTION CITY

State Federation Open Their Meeting in Fond du Lac This Morning.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Fond du Lac, Wis., Oct. 22.—Milwaukee may entertain the State Federation of Women's clubs next year. Mrs. Starnes, vice president of the Fourth district, invited the federation to select Milwaukee as the place of meeting for November. Mrs. Henry Boyle of Fond du Lac gave the address of welcome, which was responded to by Mrs. Perry Spink of Kenosha, who took the place of Mrs. Edward C. Thiers, the first vice president, who is too ill to attend the session. In her opening address Mrs. Charles Smith, the president, dwelt almost entirely on the subject of harmony among the members. The treasurer's report showed a balance in the treasury.

THE CHIMES PLAYED "ANNIE LAURE" - M. G. Whenever one does these things always a little looking in the most unexpected places. This morning a local horseman who has some reason to pride himself that he cuts a pretty good figure on his mount was passing grandly by a local livery stable. TELEGRAPHERS HELD THE RUMP MEETING Striking Wiremen Meet in Milwaukee to Denounce President Small.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 22.—Owing to the disunion in the ranks of the commercial telegraphers there is considerable doubt as to whether their national convention called for this city today will materialize. Even if a sufficient number of delegates arrive to hold the conference it is not expected that any important results will be attained. It has been reported that the conference would endeavor to bring about a strike of railroad telegraphers in support of the commercial men. Other reports have it that the principal purpose of the conference, in addition to considering plans for making the present strike more effective, will be to investigate charges against President Small and possibly to elect a man to succeed him at the head of the order.

He was born in Vermont in 1814 and served in the Civil war. He is survived by a widow and three sons, Frank and Edmund Kent, of Minneapolis, and the Rev. Lawrence Kent, living in New York state. MAIL COUNT AT POST OFFICE LAST WEEK

Figures Show 60,929 Pieces of Mail Matter Were Sent Out of Post-office in One Week.

Last week 60,929 pieces of mail were sent out of here through the local postoffice, the number being about the average amount of mail handled here. The postage for last week's mail amounted to $300.31. The pieces originating in every postoffice in the country were counted last week according to an act passed by the last congress and on order from the postal authorities at Washington. The amount of business done at the local postoffice last week was average, there being no large amount of advertising matter sent out of here by local advertisers during the week.

During the three weeks previous to last week there were hundreds of advertising matter sent out of here, but it happened that last week only the ordinary mail was handled at the postoffice. The fact that there was no advertising matter sent out last week makes the count a fair one, but prevented the showing of a larger local postal business here. Beloit handled just 54 pieces less than the Janesville office and the postage on the Line City mail matter amounted to $136.29 more than the postage on last week's mail forwarded out of here.

The postal receipts at the local office last year were about $12,000. Taking last week's business as an average the business this year would amount to about $16,000, or nearly $4,000 better than the year ending last June 30. It is thought that the business during the present fiscal year will total more than did last year's.

The detailed figures for last week's count are as follows:

MILDRED HOLLAND APPEARS TONIGHT

Emotional Actress Will Appear in "A Paradise of Lies" at Myers Opera House.

The charming actress Mildred Holland will make her annual appearance here tonight in Matthew Barry's dramatic creation "A Paradise of Lies." Janesville people have come to know the name of Mildred Holland just as one expects roses in June and snow in December, and she is just as welcome as the first and almost as necessary as the second. No matter how often one sees Mildred Holland there is just as much novelty in her appearance as there is the first time one sees her. The very name of Holland is a synonym for sentiment and emotion and has become endeared to all who enjoy the best kind of acting. Her performances are all given with one idea, "What is worth doing at all is worth well doing." She has always been surrounded by a good company. Her plays are all beautifully staged. Her manner is infinitely graceful. Her laughter infectious, her art irresistible. While skillfully avoiding any suggestion of coarseness, she thoroughly makes her points and thoroughly wins the sympathy of her audiences. "It's in the detail of the part," say those who have seen her, "that the great success of Miss Holland lies." Her this season's production was seen here last year and thoroughly enjoyed and is the most pretentious and decidedly the best of her long career.

The Nature of Women.
"For this is the nature of women, that they make light of what they have and sigh for what they have not." This is the nature of women, that they love to torment their lover and refuse him what they most of all themselves desire."—F. W. Bain, in "A Digit of the Moon."
